

Introducing Chime

Nuanced by harmonious tones and rich texture, Chime is a refined interpretation of stripes for floors, walls, and windows.

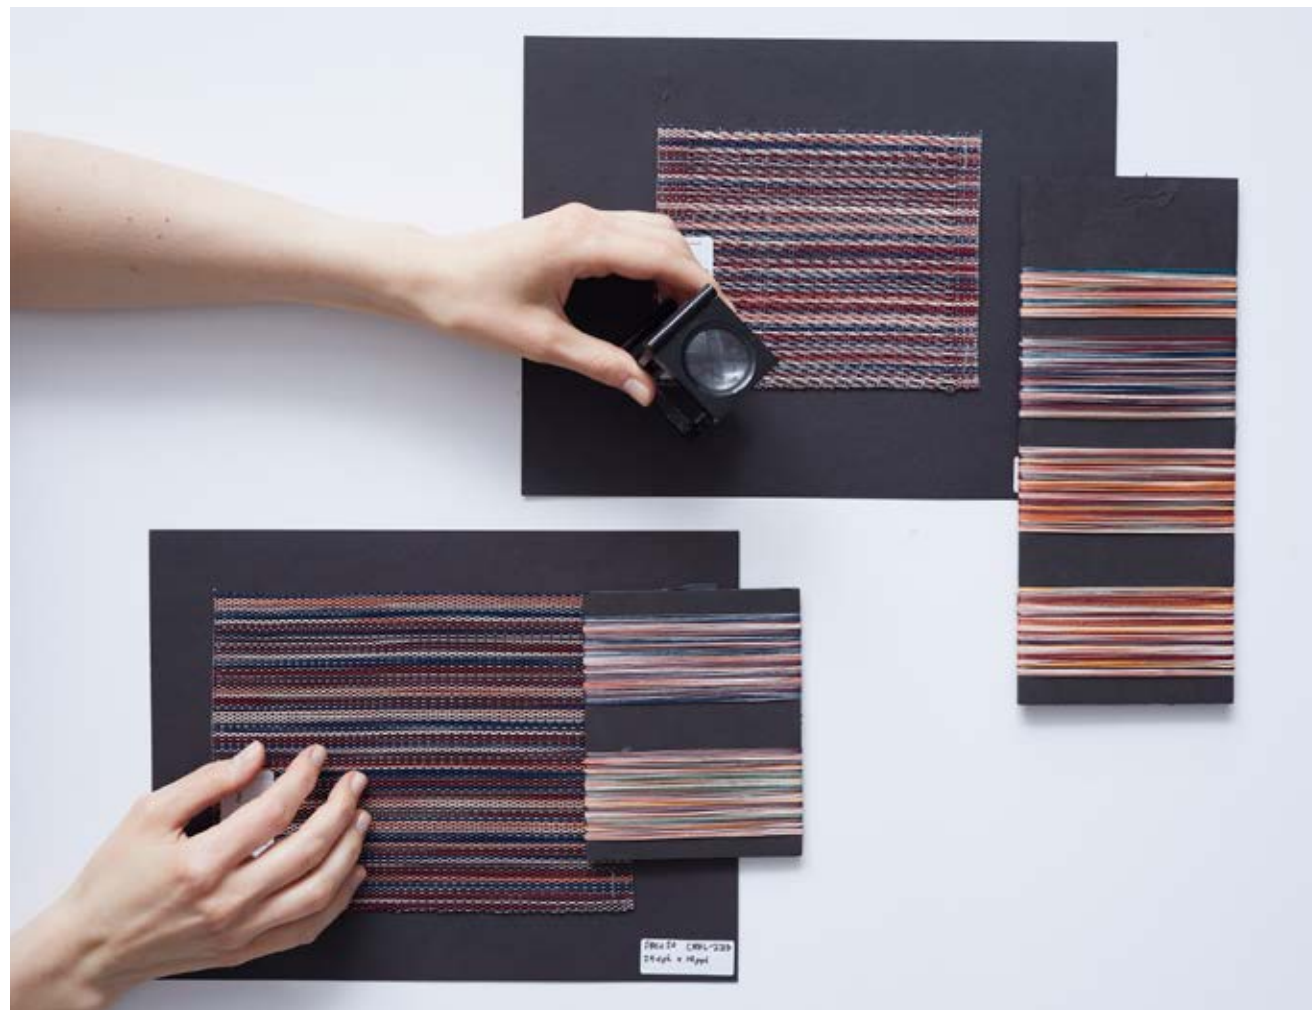

Stripes, Reimagined

The Chilewich design team set out to preserve the graphic energy of fine lines while adding depth. The starting point was yarn winding, in which strands of various hues are wrapped around paperboard to explore color combinations in three dimensions.

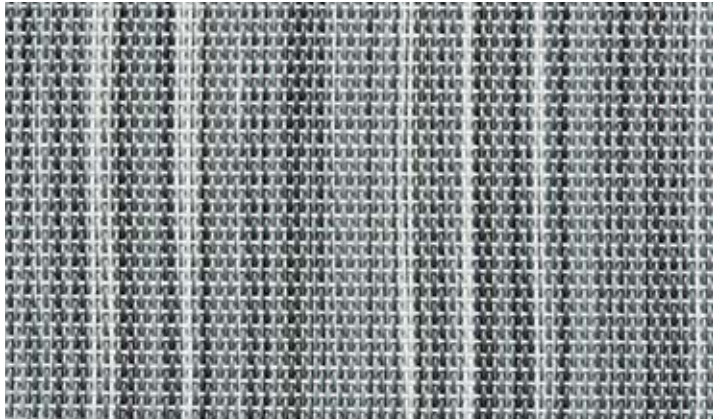

Stripes, Reimagined

Experimenting with position, proportion, and density yielded diverse compositions. The next step was to translate selected windings into weaves. The team developed a series of handlooms on the Chilewich studio's doobby loom and arrived at the final design of Chime: a plain weave imbued with the luminosity, layered washes, and diffuse edges of watercolor.
